Collection of your puppy

I was advised to put this in writing, after a buyer kept delaying collection, then advised me when the puppy was 14 weeks old, that they no longer wanted a dog.

We have all the puppies checked and inoculated by our vet at 6 weeks of age. The ideal time for a puppy to go to their new home is between 7-8 weeks of age. The second inoculation is due at 10 - 12 weeks, which is administered by your own vet.

In certain cases we will keep a puppy up to 9 weeks by prior agreement, for example holiday commitments etc. However in the event of this time being extended, you may be charged £ 5 per day to cover the expenses of the welfare of the puppy. Should we have the second inoculation administered at our vets, a further charge of £ 25 will be made.

Should the puppy not be collected by 10 weeks of age, without prior agreement in exceptional circumstances, then you may lose your deposit which is non refundable.

The dog will then be re-advertised and regrettably you will have relinquished all rights to the ownership of the puppy.

In the unlikely event of us having to enforce any of these conditions, we are not liable for any expense or trauma this may cause you, or your further expense in seeking another puppy.
